AH is integrated in D.P.A. and within the interdisciplinary research framework of the Cultural Landscape Research Group, G.I.P.C. since 2006. The AH project operates as a training process for the regular's students of Architecture, part of them Erasmus and international students, to obtain a sensibility within the contemporary landscape through Actions on Art. From these premises, the teaching research project aims at revealing landscapes within the European framework of "Contemporary Cultural Landscape".

This complex process proposed is made possible by a series of appropriations of the gaze of specific artists as "accomplices" during the research procedure. It is a process of extreme fragility and responsibility that let us to produce critical reading of the study "zone". A dialogue between art and architecture acts as a key starting point to extend an action which promotes a sensibility of looking at the landscape of our contemporaneity.
